Libel Suit May Be Sequel to Charges Made By Vanderlip Against Owners of the Marion Star

WASHINGTON, February 18.—(Special.)—Sharp retaliation against Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank of New York City, because of unfounded insinuations regarding their financial responsibility and their purchase of the Marion Star from the late President Warren G. Harding is contemplated by Louis B. Brush and Roy D. Moore, the present owners of The Star.

RED PEPPER FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It can't hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism torture at once. When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quick relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red pepper. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes, through, pain and soreness are gone. Now use Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name "Red Pepper Rub" on each package.—Advertisement.

Brush and Moore today intimated that they expect to sue Vanderlip immediately for libel, asking punitive damages in the sum of half a million dollars each.

Both publishers appeared highly incensed at the conclusion of Vanderlip's testimony before the Senate Public Lands committee, in which he admitted that he did not possess a single fact to substantiate his assertion of last Tuesday at Briar Cliff, N. Y., that "a certain Marion newspaper was purchased for $500,000 by two young men of no financial standing."

It has been suggested that the plaintiffs in the suit might appropriately engage as legal counsel Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, who was described by Vanderlip as "a political skunk," but this is regarded as unlikely. William H. Vordrey, who acted as counsel for Brush in interrogating Vanderlip at his hearing before the Public Lands committee, will probably act in similar capacity if the libel suit is instituted.

Brush, who resides at Salem, is a man of middle age and reputedly a millionaire. Moore is younger and has made considerable money.

A court action is necessary, both The Star owners believe, to place the real facts in the Star sale on record and remove from the public mind any slanders which may linger as a result of Vanderlip's random statements.

Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Warren, Representative John G. Cooper of Youngstown, and Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, widow of the ex-president, were the first three signers of the petition which Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty has filed as a candidate for delegate at large to the Republican National convention at Cleveland. Other signers are Senator Frank B. Willis of Delaware and Representative James T. Begg of San Diego.

Daugherty is one of the seven candidates approved by President Calvin Coolidge to represent him in the primary on April 29 for delegate at large, of which Ohio will have seven at the Cleveland convention.

The attorney general is pledged to Coolidge and has no second choice, he stated in submitting his petition to Secretary of State Thad H. Brown at Columbus. The other two members of the "Big Seven" named by Coolidge who are now in Washington, Senators Frank B. Willis and Simon D. Pess, have not yet filed their petitions at Columbus, but will do so early next week.

44 per cent surrex. Thirty or more Democrats were absent. The Republican leaders would need only a handful of Democrats to put their program through if they could only be sure of their own ranks, but insurgents, mostly from the West, are opposed even to 35 per cent and think the Democratic plan a safer one from a political standpoint.

As amendments are voted on the Republican leaders realize that they must in some way compel a vote on the 35 per cent rate before there is an opportunity for the Democrats to compel a coalition on 44 per cent. If 35 per cent should be beaten, there is some chance of a Democratic compromise at around 38 to 40 per cent. The plan is to offer an amendment for each per cent until that point is reached where a majority of the House will agree.

The situation is almost unprecedented. While there is a good deal of politics in it, party lines are being broken right and left and the lineup is not between Republicans and Democrats but between those who think they would be favoring the wealthy by too great a reduction and those who think they are stimulating the business and industrial prosperity of the country by relieving capital of restrictions.

If the Republican leaders can get a 35 per cent surrex rate through the House, they will be lucky indeed, and if the Senate sees the wisdom of secretary Mellon's arguments the battle in conference between the two houses would be for a compromise between 25 and 35 per cent. There is going to be a compromise in the end and much of the jockeying being done now is for the purpose of attaining a maximum that is not too far away from Mr. Mel-lon's 25 per cent.

The Senate on the other hand, may prove more radical than the House.
In any event the moves of the next week in the House will have an important bearing on what is finally accomplished. Curiously enough, the main fight is on surrexes as there seems to be little difference of opinion on other features of the bill. It is likely however that the administration itself will be compelled to suggest changes in the other rates if the 44 per cent surrex is accepted and the Democrats likewise will have to alter their schedule if the 44 per cent rate is not approved for a tax bill is made up of a series of balances as between various schedules and an alteration in one rate makes necessary a change in other features of the plan. Making tax bills on the floor of the House is a new experience for Congress.

TREASURY ACCUSED OF JUGGLING FIGURES

NEW YORK, February 18.—(By the Associated Press)—American Le-gislatives were pushing their campaign for an excessive men's bonus today with renewed vigor after a sensational sports test night in which the treasury department was accused of "juggling" its estimates against the project and Secretary Mellon was charged with "misleading" the late President Harding and President Coolidge.

The charge of "juggling" was made by Colonel Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian at a bonus meeting.
He said a "rich treasury official" had admitted the alleged manipulation of the figures to him and had confessed the estimates were dishonestly increased "because it was felt necessary at the time Congress requested a revision." He said the treasury department was using stronger arguments against the bonus
each time it came up.

Representative Benjamin L. Fairchild, Republican, of New York, said Secretary Mellon "misled Mr. Harding in anticipating a $600,000,000 deficit when events proved there was a $300,- 000,000 surplus in the treasury."

This $600,000,000 difference, Mr.
Fairchild asserted, "prevented President Harding, perhaps, more than any other feature, from signing the bonus bill."

Alvin M. Owsler, former national commander of the Legion, told his hearers the bonus would pass the house by a five to one vote and get a majority in the senate, "eventually passing over the veto of Calvin Coolidge."

THIS IS BETTER MAILING WEEK

This week, starting today, has been designated by the U. S. Postal Department, Harry S. New, Postmaster General, as Better Mailing Week, for the purpose of encouraging effort on the part of businessmen to use the postal service to the greatest advantage in their mailing of their branch of service.

In connection with Better Mailing Week, Postmaster W. H. Harsh, of the local postoffice, will carry on a campaign for better addressing of mail. All school teachers in the county will be sent literature which will give proper in-schools the parents will be reached.

Business men will also be sent the latest bulletins urging the use of complete and full addresses instead of only the name of a person and city in which they live.

Propose Broadening Scope Of Church Missionary Work

DATON, O., February 18.—(By the Associated Press)—Ways and means of broadening the scope of the work of the church in missionary development fields were discussed here today by representatives of the promotional departments of sixteen Protestant denominations attending the semi-annual conference of promotional agencies called by the Federal Council of Churches.

The work of placing before membership of the various churches the picture of what is being accomplished both in foreign fields and at home, proper methods of budgeting expenditures and the actual collection of money with which to finance the functions under-

Iniquity Among Public Officials Limited To Few

BOSTON, MASS., February 18.—
(By the Associated Press)—Iniquity among public officials is limited to a few, United States Senator David I.
Walsh, of Massachusetts declared in an address at a patriotic meeting here yesterday. The most dangerous men, he added, are those who make reckless statements concerning the government without being able to furnish proof.

Assailing indifference on the part of citizens of unquestioned integrity to "abuses of power in high places," he said that the confidence of the people must not be shaken by public scandals in places of trust, or by evidences of domination at times "of the corrupting forces that take from the poor to make the rich richer."

"The people still have faith in the government, he said, and 'despite revelations rampant today that have stirred up probably the worst storm witnessed in this country, which has shocked the very foundation of democracy, the citizenship of Washington and Lincoln are still intact.'"

"Iniquity among public officials is limited to a few men—the most dangerous men are those who make reckless statements regarding the government and its representative, and can not furnish proof," he said.

"The first duty of the patriot in time of peace when influences appear attacking the integrity of our government is spirit that characterized our soldiers when the country was threatened in time of war. That is the service we expect and demand."

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to "serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: It soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for treatment of chronic coughs and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach is absorbed into the blood attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Oil Scandal Promises to Spread In Many Directions

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 18 (Special to the Times).—The oil scandal investigation, which started originally over the leasing of the Teapot Dome reserve in Wyoming to Harry F. Sinclair, has since spread in many directions. Not even those on the Senate investigating committee are able to forecast where the Senate inquiry will lead to. It is pointed out here that there are a number of collateral matters which will be developed along with the details of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hill leases.
Chief among these is the question of how far the Osage Indians in Oklahoma, whose lands are the richest oil-bearing sections of the United States, have been robbed by designing white men who took advantage of the Indians' lack of business sense and education to exploit them to the limit, and to what extent government officials benefited financially.
It is one of the queer turns of fate that, after the Indians had been driven west by his pale-faced foes and forced to take what were in those days regarded as the most worthless lands in the nation, marked principally by sage brush and cactus, the lands taken over by the Osages at the direction of the government should turn out to be the richest in mines and resources of any in the nation. Per capita, the Osage Indians of Oklahoma are the richest people of the world.
It is charged here that when the investigations of the white man showed that the Osage lands were exceedingly rich in oil, the activities of the schemers began.
The lands originally set aside for the Osage Indians in Oklahoma alone are worth more than the combined Doherty and Sinclair oil leases. But these lands have not remained in the possession of the Red men.
It is said the largest holder of the Osage oil land leases at the present time is the Gulf Refining Company, of which R. B. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, Penn., is president, and in which Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was a large stockholder before he laid aside his private business to enter the Cabinet. Many of the oil leases were made under Albert B. Fall, when he was secretary of the Interior.
The Senate committee conducting the probe of the naval oil reserve leases plan also to investigate all the circumstances connected with the taking over of the Osage leases by the Gulf Refining Company and other private interests. It is predicted by those familiar with the situation that such an inquiry will develop some startling and shocking facts regarding the manner in which the Indians have been exploited.
It is said that the persons responsible for imposing on the Indians are not confined to any one political party. Members of both the Republican and Democratic parties will come under fire.
The Osages, up to a comparatively recent date were located in Kansas, but in 1872, through a treaty made with the United States Government, the Indians gave up their holdings in that state and from the money so realized they bought, at a cost of nearly $2,000,000, one and a half million acres of land in what is now Osage county in Oklahoma.

No one at that time dreamed of the oil beneath the ground. By reason of their primitive habits and lack of education these Indians were under the guardianship and control of the Department of the Interior at Washington. They were not allowed to enter into any agreements or contracts with white men in connection with their lands except by the permission of that department. They had the same status as children and were incapable of protecting themselves in any business arrangements.
These vast petroleum deposits of the Osages are now in possession of individual producers of oil or large producing corporations. It is charged that this wealth was taken away from them with no equivalent return, and in 1910, on the expiration of a blanket oil and gas lease which covered 680,000 acres of their land, they were forced to make a second lease of that enormous tract still containing riches.
The original lease had been made out to a man named Foster, who assigned it in 1905 to the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil and Gas Company, a Delaware corporation, one of the principal owners of which was Foster's son. This corporation sublet large tracts of the 680,000 acres to other developers and by June, 1915, a large amount of oil production existed on about 70,000 acres. The subleases of this development were due to terminate in March, 1916, and in view of this situation the Osage Indian Council, the governing body of the tribe, was summoned to appear in Washington by the then Secretary of the Interior. The Indians signed, but it is charged they were not able to consult with attorneys before making the agreement.
The investigation of the Osage lands will be undertaken after the committee completes its investigation of the naval oil leases. In the meantime the Osages and their attorneys are gathering evidence and material through which they hope to prove that they have been robbed of millions of dollars in leasing their oil lands.

Seat Sale Opens Tuesday

"A woman is not fit to be married unless she is ready to forgive her husband at least three times a week," says Dr. Anderson in advising his niece, Grace Livingston, on the subject of marriage. Dr. Anderson and Grace are two of the leading characters in the John Golden comedy, "The 1st Year" which comes to Portsmouth, Monday, February 25. Grace is undecided as to whether she wants Dick Loring, the handsome and romantic construction engineer, or Tommy Tucker, the prosaic real estate man. Of the two, though less romantic, is more dependable. But Tommy is bashful, so Grace has to induce him to propose. This scene is full of exquisite humor.
Reserved seats go on sale Tuesday, February 19, at 8 a. m. at the Samuel Levi furniture store, 1007 Gallia street. The comedy is being brought to Portsmouth by the local lodge of B'nai B'rith and the proceeds from the performance will be used for the fund to build a pipe organ in the new Jewish Temple.

Belcher, Who Escaped From Penitentiary Three Years Ago, Is Caught Near Haverhill

IRONTON, O., Feb. 18.—Harry Belcher, convicted of man slaughter for the slaying of General Chaffin, at Sheridan, this county, in 1920, and who has been at liberty for the last three years following his escape from the Ohio Penitentiary, was captured yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Wilson and Special Officer Gordon.
The officers found Belcher at the home of an uncle, Wm. Green, just back of Haverhill. As they advanced on the home from two directions the fugitive caught sight of the deputy sheriff and started running, but well directed shots halted him. Belcher, following his conviction here, was sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary for an indefinite sentence of from one to twenty years. Officers from the prison will wire here today to take him back for recommitment.

Ironton Man Hit By Train; May Die

IRONTON, Feb. 18.—Injuries sustained by Thomas Sands, 67 year old resident of West Ironton, when he was struck by an east bound N. & W. freight train below Mifflit bridge Saturday, may prove fatal as reports from the Marting hospital say his condition is critical.
There were no eye witnesses to the accident. Sands is unable to tell how it happened but the supposition is that he stepped from in front of one train directly in the path of another. He was knocked to one side by the engine, his head being cut badly and his side crushed. Several ribs were fractured and it is possible he was injured internally.

McAdoo's Candidacy To Be Discussed at Meeting In Chicago: Is Going After Delegates In Ohio

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 18 (Special to the Times).—Judge David Ladd Rockwell, of Ravenna, commander-in-chief of the McAdoo-for-President campaign, plunged into the west today determined to right any wrong which has been done his chief as a result of his recent connection with the evidence in the Teapot Dome case.
Judge Rockwell intends to make the excellent showing of William G. McAdoo on the witness stand, which has served to clear his name and to remove suspicion of illegal connection with the Doherty oil interests, an asset in his progress toward the Democratic presidential nomination.
In response to McAdoo's letter of inquiry asking whether he was now classed as "unavailable" for the party nomination, Rockwell today announced that he had called a conference in Chicago for February 22 at which the question of McAdoo's candidacy will be thoroughly discussed. This was done at the express wish of McAdoo expressed in his letter to his campaign manager.
"This is the most daring, direct and courageous step ever taken by any Presidential candidate," Rockwell declared in a letter to McAdoo congratulating him upon his decision. "I know, of course, that you are prepared to abide by the result, as I am myself, and as I am sure all the thousands of others who have enlisted voluntarily in this movement will do."
Those invited to the conference will include representative men and women leaders in the McAdoo movement over the nation, representative Progressives outside the Democratic party, representatives of labor, of the farmers, and other liberals.
The McAdoo manager and his assistants moved westward with the light of battle in their eyes. The most interesting intimation which they left behind was that the former Secretary of the Treasury will certainly go after delegates in the Ohio primary. Whether he will have a full slate of delegates on

BY J. BART CAMPBELL
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18.—(Special.)—Should the conference of McAdoo supporters to be held at Chicago next Monday decide that because of the oil lease exposure he is no longer available as a presidential contender, large blocks of his backers will immediately get behind Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York.

Should the conference decide that McAdoo has not been seriously injured by the linking of his name with the scandal, to find later that his nomination cannot be put through the Democratic national convention, much of the California's strength will be inherited by the New York Senator.

These are the only definite conclusions reached at the almost continuous conference of McAdoo adherents held here during the past week, it was disclosed today.

It has been recognized that the friendship of the organized railway workers constituted the strongest group supporting McAdoo's presidential aspirations, and spokesmen for the big brotherhoods have no hesitancy in declaring that if he is eliminated from the race they will flock to the banner of Senator Copeland as the only possible second choice.

So far as these union leaders are concerned, they declare that they have surrendered none of their affection for or loyalty to McAdoo, and at the conference at Chicago they will insist that he permit his name to go before the Democratic convention.

This also, is the attitude of many McAdoo men and women not affiliated in any manner with organized labor. They declare that to permit the Californian to withdraw in the face of charges made against him would be an admission of guilt, and for his friends to insist that he adopt this course would be an unwarranted betrayal that would react against the progressive cause.

It is confidentially expected, therefore, that the friends of McAdoo will decide at the Chicago conference that nothing has developed that makes his retirement expedient or desirable. In that event the Copeland candidacy will be held in abeyance, pending what may happen at the New York convention.

Many McAdoo supporters, particularly organized labor spokesmen, have been urging that Copeland should go on the ticket with the Californian in the event of the latter's nomination. Leaders of the railroad brotherhoods declare that of all named Democratic aspirants, only McAdoo and Copeland can command the support of organized labor. For this reason, it is stated, the New York Senator will inherit in considerable degree that McAdoo is declared to have developed in his campaign for delegates.

Organized workers earnestly supported Copeland in his Senatorial contest on the strength of his assurance that he was sympathetic with many of their political and economic aspirations.

Since coming to Washington the New York Senator has addressed numerous conferences of workers, thus evincing that he has maintained the confidence and friendship that secured for him labor support in the New York election.

Along the road strode the funny giant

At that he put his hand in his pocket again to gently pat his newly found treasure, when suddenly he found out in his great voice: "There are gone! The Twins are not there! Snap, where are those children? Did you eat them?"

"I'll tell you what happened to the Twins. When the giant pulled out his pipe, the Twins were standing on it, and losing their balance, away they went!"

"But you'll never guess where they landed. Not in a thousand years! They landed right on Snap's back! But he was so big and his hair was so long and woolly, and the Twins were so small and light, that when they fell on him he never felt a thing, but went trotting along at his usual pace as though nothing had happened."

"Snap, did you eat those Twins?" demanded the jolly giant sternly. "If you did, I will smack you."

"How-wow-wow!" barked Snap, not quite knowing what all the trouble was about. "It was a res bow-wow, or a no bow-wow?" asked the giant. "Well, I guess it sounds like a no bow-wow, so I will not smack you. Now then, sir, we must hunt for those little kinder. Your nose is such a good one for smelling. Snap, we ought to find them."

"But look as they would, the Twins were not to be found. Nancy and Nick had grabbed Snap's thick wool and buried themselves out of sight. (To Be Continued)

FINE FAMILY OF SIX OWES GOOD HEALTH TO FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

When Mrs. Ray N. McIntire sent in this picture she said: "This picture of my six children will show you more than anything I could write the benefit we have received from using Father John's Medicine. My doctor in Dover, N. H., recommended it to me. I think it is the greatest medicine that money can buy. All my children take it when they have colds or need building up." (Signed) Mrs. Ray N. McIntire, Fisher St., Westboro, Mass.

Because Father John's Medicine is pure, wholesome nourishment, and has had 68 years' success treating colds and coughs, it is the standard family remedy in thousands of homes all over the country. It is safe for every member of the family, because it contains no alcohol or dangerous drugs.

tempts to draw St. Thomas' attention from Miss Seymour. Supper was done, and still they kept the table over their wine, waiting for that belated guest whose seat continued vacant.

Above that empty place sat the Duke—a dazzling figure in a suit of shimmering white satin with diamond buttons that looked like drops of water.

None of all that company he did not abuse the wine. Again and again he waved away the velvet-footed lackeys that approached to pour for him.

From the chilly heights of his own unusual sobriety he found them gross and tiresome; their laughter jarred on him. He strained his ears to catch some rumble of wheels in the courtyard.

Sedley in a maudlin voice began to sing a very questionable song of his own writing, whilst Miss Howden made a comedy of pretending to silence him. He was still singing it, when Stanhope sprang up and mounted his chair, holding aloft a dainty glass of champagne and calling loudly for wine. Pretty little Anne would have snatched back her foot but that she was restrained by Ogilvie, who not only held her firmly, but had pulled her into his lap, where she writhed and screamed and giggled all in one.

Solemnly, as if it were the most ordinary and natural of things, a lackey poured wine into the shoe, as Stanhope bade him. And Stanhope, standing above them, gay and flushed, proposed a toast the terms of which he had no intention of repeating.

He was midway through when the twin doors behind him were thrown open by a chamberlain, whose face rang solemnly above the general din.

"Miss Sylvia Farquharson, may it please your grace."

There was a momentary pause as of surprise; then louder than ever rose their voices in hilarious acclamations of the announcement.

Buckingham sprang up and round, and several others rose with him, to give a proper welcome to the belated guest. Stanhope one foot on his chair, the other on the table, bowed to her with a flourish of the slipper from which he had just drunk.

She stood at gaze, breathless and suddenly pale, on the summit of the three steps that led down to the level of the chamber, her startled, dilating eyes pondering fearfully that scene of abandonment. She saw little Anne Seymour, whom she knew, struggling and laughing in the arms of Sir Thomas Ogilvie. She saw Ethelred, whom she also knew, sitting, with flushed face and loquacious words, in attitudes that even more boldly proclaimed the license prevailing over this orgy to which she had been bidden.

If she only knew that she could put on at least 5 pounds of good, healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrying about her peaked face and run-down looks. She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the ill-smelling, nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitamins that make flesh, create appetite, build up the power to resist disease and chase away nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff and every day fewer people are taking it for doctors are prescribing and the people are fast learning that they can get better results with McCord's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which Fisher & Swivel, Wurster Bros. and Stewart's Cut Rate Drug Store and druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand for.

It's a wonderful upbuilding medicine for children, especially after sickness, and sixty tablets only cost 90 cents.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days and if any skinny man or woman can't put on 5 pounds in 30 days, your druggist will gladly return the purchase price—advertising agent.

Spring Fashions Are Arriving Daily

It's only a matter of a few weeks when bright clothes will be visible everywhere and everybody will be enjoying the glorious days of spring.

With true spring-like freshness, our stocks in their completeness reveal the numerous modes in a most fascinating manner. Much can be written about their clever lines, their fabrics, their bright colors. But all the glowing superlatives that can be truthfully written about them could not bring to the mind a full realization of the charm possessed by these various lovely things. They must be seen.

We extend a special invitation to make full use of the courtesies of this store, and to consider yourself entirely welcome to come in at your leisure and see the new fashions, even if at the time you are not ready to purchase.

Another fact worth remembering is this, you're going to need new things and it doesn't cost any more to get them NOW than to wait a month or two.

FORTUNE'S FOOL

—RAFAEL SABATINI—
ILLUSTRATED BY R.W. SAWYER

BEHOLD HERE TODAY
Colonel Holmes, soldier and adventurer, returns to England, the land of his birth, where he is joined with Holland. He comes to lodge with the Quinns, hostess of the Paul's Head, in Paul's Yard, London.

"The colonel asks his old friend, His Grace of Albemarle, to secure for him a place in the army."

Albemarle warns him that the name of Randall Holmes, father of the colonel, is on the warrant for the execution of the last king. Therefore it is dangerous for the colonel to secure a commission. A friend named Tucker asks Holmes to enter a conspiracy to overthrow the government.

The dreaded pestilence is rapidly spreading in London. His Grace of Buckingham falls victim to the charms of Sylvia Farquharson, actress. He offers to write a play for her.

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
Is not a part, indeed, a sort of garment for the soul? Nay, now, I am to continue I must have your assistance as I say. I must know how this first act opens to you, how far my laurels justify to your power my laurels, and justice to your power shall follow. Therefore again I ask you—and in the sacred cause of art I defy you to deny me—when will you hear what I have written?

"Why, since you go, does me so much honor, when you will, to see, and to read, this homage to talent from one of his gifts and station, the intimate of princes, the close association of kings, and it stilled, temporarily at least, the last of his intuitions which the radiant gentleman. They had become so friendly and intimate had been so respectful and respectful throughout, that clearly her instincts had mislead her at that first meeting.

"When I will," said he. "That is to honor me, indeed. Shall it be tomorrow, then?"

"If your grace pleases, and you will bring the act."

"Bring it?" He raised his eyebrows. His lip curled a little as he looked round the dingy green room. "You do not propose, child, that I should read it here?" He laughed in dismissal of the notion.

"But where else, then?" she asked, a little bewildered.

"Where else but in my own house? What other place were proper?"

"But... at your house?"

"Why, what would be said of me, your grace? To come there alone?"

"Child! Child!" he interrupted her, his tone laden with gentle reproach. "Can you think that I should go lightly expose you to the lewd tongues of the town? Alone? Give your mind heed. I shall have some friends to keep you in countenance and to join you as audience to hear what I have written. There shall be one or two ladies from the King's House; perhaps Miss Seymour from the Duke's here will join us; there is a small party for her in the play; and there shall be some friends of my own; maybe even His Majesty will honor us. We shall make a merry party at supper, and after supper you shall pronounce upon Laura whom you are to incarnate. Is your hesitancy conquered?"

It was, indeed. Her mind was in a whirl. A supper party at Wallingford House, at which in a sense she was to be the guest of honor, and which the King himself would attend! She would have been mad to hesitate. It was to enter the great world at a stride. Other actresses had done it—Moll Davis and little would, and that supper was to provide the whole entertainment, it follows that this would be protracted, and that however late she came she was likely still to find the party at table.

They were a very merry company and as time passed they grew merrier. There was Ethelred, of course, the real promoter of the whole affair, and this elegant, talented Usher who was ultimately and at a still early age to kill himself with drinking, was doing the fullest justice to the reputation which the winecup had already earned him. There was Sedley, that other gifted prodigy, whose slim, graceful person gave little indication of the rotting soul within. Young Rochester should have been of the party, but he was at that moment in the Tower, whither he had been sent as a consequence of his utterly foolish and unnecessary attempt to abduct Miss Mallet two nights ago. But Sir Harry Stanhope, filled his vacant place—or, at least, half-filled it, for whilst Rochester was both wit and Usherian, young Stanhope was a Usherian only. And of course there was Sir Thomas Ogilvie, that boon companion of Sedley's, and two other gentlemen whose names have not survived. The ladies were of less distinguished lineage. There was a ravishingly fair little Anne Seymour from the Duke's House, her white shoulders displayed in a décolletage that outraged even the daring fashion of the day. There was Moll Davis from the King's House seated on the Duke's left, with Ethelred immediately below her and entirely engrossed by her. The chair on the right of the Duke's table, at which the Duke's right stood empty. The guest of honor, Miss Farquharson, had not yet arrived. At the last moment she had sent a message that she was unavoidably detained for some little time at home, and that, if on this account it should happen that she must deny herself the honor of sitting down to supper at the Duke's table, at least she would request Wallingford House in time for the reading with which his grace was to delight the company.

It was in part a fiction. There was nothing to detain Miss Farquharson beyond a revival of her uneasy intuitions, which warned her against the increase of intimacy that would attend her inclusion in that radiant gentleman. The play, however, was another affair. Therefore she would so time her arrival that she would find supper at an end and the reading about to begin.

His grace found her message vexatious, and he would have postponed supper until her arrival but that his guests did not permit him to have his own way in the matter. As the truth was that there was no first act in existence, for the Duke had not yet written a line of it and probably never

BUCKINGHAM SPRANG UP TO WELCOME THE BELATED GUEST. ing her, and there was that dark, statuesque, insolent-eyed Jane Howden, languidly spreading her nets for Sir Charles Sedley, who showed himself willing and eager to be taken in them. A fourth lady on Ogilvie's left was making desperate but futile attempts to draw St. Thomas' attention from Miss Seymour.

Supper was done, and still they kept the table over their wine, waiting for that belated guest whose seat continued vacant.

Above that empty place sat the Duke—a dazzling figure in a suit of shimmering white satin with diamond buttons that looked like drops of water.

None of all that company he did not abuse the wine. Again and again he waved away the velvet-footed lackeys that approached to pour for him.

From the chilly heights of his own unusual sobriety he found them gross and tiresome; their laughter jarred on him. He strained his ears to catch some rumble of wheels in the courtyard.

Sedley in a maudlin voice began to sing a very questionable song of his own writing, whilst Miss Howden made a comedy of pretending to silence him. He was still singing it, when Stanhope sprang up and mounted his chair, holding aloft a dainty glass of champagne and calling loudly for wine. Pretty little Anne would have snatched back her foot but that she was restrained by Ogilvie, who not only held her firmly, but had pulled her into his lap, where she writhed and screamed and giggled all in one.

Solemnly, as if it were the most ordinary and natural of things, a lackey poured wine into the shoe, as Stanhope bade him. And Stanhope, standing above them, gay and flushed, proposed a toast the terms of which he had no intention of repeating.

He was midway through when the twin doors behind him were thrown open by a chamberlain, whose face rang solemnly above the general din.

"Miss Sylvia Farquharson, may it please your grace."

There was a momentary pause as of surprise; then louder than ever rose their voices in hilarious acclamations of the announcement.

Buckingham sprang up and round, and several others rose with him, to give a proper welcome to the belated guest. Stanhope one foot on his chair, the other on the table, bowed to her with a flourish of the slipper from which he had just drunk.

She stood at gaze, breathless and suddenly pale, on the summit of the three steps that led down to the level of the chamber, her startled, dilating eyes pondering fearfully that scene of abandonment. She saw little Anne Seymour, whom she knew, struggling and laughing in the arms of Sir Thomas Ogilvie. She saw Ethelred, whom she also knew, sitting, with flushed face and loquacious words, in attitudes that even more boldly proclaimed the license prevailing over this orgy to which she had been bidden.

Miss M. Mitchell Tells How Cuticura Healed Her Mother

"My mother had a bad breaking out on her face which caused her much trouble, day and night by burning and itching. It took the form of blisters at first and then scalded over. It looked terrible and her hair fell out. She lost sleep on account of the irritation, and had been troubled for years."

"She read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some. After the first application she felt better, and after using two boxes of Cuticura Soap, she was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Margaret Mitchell, R. 2, Box 57, Spooner, Wis., July 18, 1923.

Fred W. Baesman Suffers $5,000 Loss

Vanity Hall, one of the largest buildings of its kind in West Virginia, located on Fourth avenue in Huntington, was completely gutted by fire which was discovered at 7 a. m. Monday. Loss on the building under lease to the Chamber of Commerce of that city, is placed at $60,000, with fifty per cent insurance. Fred W. Baesman held a sub-lease on the structure and conducted his dancing academy in it. He lost all of his personal belongings, including his wardrobe, and the building was placed at $5,000 and is covered by insurance.

For several years he has had singular success in conducting a dancing school in the building, a one-story structure with a balcony running around the entire building. Firemen by hard work prevented the flames from communicating to adjacent properties.

An indoor circus occupied the building last week and it is thought the fire started from a cigarette or cigar stub, which smoldered for a day or two and then burst into flame.

Sunday School Attendance

Sunday's inclement weather caused a decided drop in the 1919 school attendance, the total reaching only 6633 a decrease of 748 from a week ago. Only two schools remained above the 500 mark.	Wheelerburg M. E. .... 226

Local Couple Lost In Fastness of Preserve; Return to Lodge After Exciting Experience

When Mr. and Mrs. John Lowry and son, John, of Officers street, visit the Game Preserve on the West Side again, they will have a guide, or carry several compasses, they told friends Monday.

Lost in the fastness of the Preserve Saturday afternoon, they were unable to find their way to the Lodge before 9 o'clock and friends receiving no word from them Saturday night or early Sunday morning, labored under the apprehension that they possibly had met a tragic death.

All kinds of rumors spread over the city about their failure to return home Saturday night and it was not until 9 o'clock Sunday morning that relatives and friends had their anxiety relieved as word was received at that time that Mr. and Mrs. Lowry and son had spent the night at the Game Preserve as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Voorhees. It was too sleepy for them to drive their machine home Saturday night and Mr. and Mrs. Voorhees prevailed upon them to spend the night with them.

There is no telephone communication in that section and Mr. Lowry could not call his home and relieve the anxiety of his housekeeper and friends as to the safety of the party. "We got on the wrong path and finally wound up near the head of Pond Creek, instead of being headed for the Lodge," Mr. Lowry said Sunday.

We had a rather thrilling experience and would not go through it again for anything. When we thought we were near our starting point, we found out later we were five miles away. It was raining most of the time and we were drenched but happy when we finally reached the Lodge.

Conference of McAdoo Supporters Expected to Insist that He Stay In the Race For Presidency

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—More than 300 advocates of the candidacy of William G. McAdoo for the Democratic nomination for president gathered here today and saw Judge David Ladd Rockwell of Ohio, open the conference that will decide whether Teapot Dome disclosures have or have not made Mr. McAdoo unfit to continue as a presidential candidate.

A goodly scattering of women were noted in the gathering that listened to the keynote speech delivered by Homer Cummings, of Connecticut, former chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Quite a number of railroad labor men were also seen among those present, including Daniel Ryan, of the car men's union, President Sheppard of the Railroad Conductors' body, and others.

The conference was called, Mr. Cummings said, "not only to discuss the fortunes of an individual but to consider the fate of the cause of liberalism."

"Those who control the Republican party," he continued, "are attempting to divert attention from their own derelictions and to implicate Democrats in the disgraceful disclosures in the Teapot Dome scandal."

"Not one Democratic official and not one person mentioned in connection with the Democratic presidential nomination has been touched by the revelation."

"The mere statement of the situation reveals the absurdity of the assertion that there has been any impairment of his strength as a candidate."

George F. Milton, manager of the McAdoo forces in Tennessee, reported that McAdoo clubs all over Tennessee had passed resolutions endorsing him. Mr. McAdoo continued, mandating that Mr. McAdoo continue in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

A delegation of 150, representing many sections of the state, to the conference. J. H. Campbell, in charge of the Des Moines McAdoo headquarters, read a statement declaring his belief that the Democratic party can not afford to establish the precedent of permitting an outstanding candidate to withdraw at the instance of partisan attack emanating from the "cesspool of partisan political intrigues and corruption."

Charles J. Herring, of Des Moines, McAdoo's state manager, declared there had been "no weakening of the lines" in the Hawkeye state. Long applause greeted the mention of McAdoo's name when the call for the conference was read.

Thunders of "no" answered the question "Shall we desert the field to the forces of reaction?"

W. H. Hovess of South Dakota, chairman of the South Dakota Central Committee, was elected president.

Chairman Hovess, in addressing the conference said:

"I see in this attack on Mr. McAdoo a concerted effort of the Republican party to discredit him and block his nomination by the Democratic party as these Republicans know that if he be nominated he will be elected."

"In South Dakota," he said, "the only ones who are talking that Mr. McAdoo's availability has been injured are Republicans who would never vote for a Democrat and are only looking for any excuse to be against him."

Mr. McAdoo also was here but planned not to go to the conference unless invited.

Friends of Mr. McAdoo from thirty-four states were here.

Many prior to the conference expressed themselves positively that Mr. McAdoo's candidacy had not been injured by what they termed the work of slanderers and Democratic enemies of the Democratic cause.

The more optimistic declared he would be nominated and elected.

None of these early speakers who included Homer S. Cummings, of Connecticut, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Mr. Carl Vinson, of Oregon, and other former secretaries of agriculture, predicted other than that the conference would unanimously demand that Mr. McAdoo continue to stand for the nomination.

Phil Streich and Lee Smith May Be Johnson Candidates in This District

WASHINGTON, February 18.—(By the Associated Press)—Governor Phil Streich, of Pennsylvania, stopped off here last night en route from Southern Pines, N. C., to Harrisburg, and had his car lanced for a slight infection. The governor described the trouble and the operation as trivial and was up and about business today. He expects to return to Harrisburg in a day or two.

H. W. Hincheliffe and Rev. T. A. Warnock of Cleveland, here to boost the candidacy of Hiram Johnson as a candidate for the presidency of the U. S., were making an effort Monday to induce Phil Streich, well known druggist, and Lee Smith, of GIS Sixth street, to become candidates from the Sixth District to the National Republican Convention to be held in Cleveland in June, subject to the April primaries. It is understood that Mr. Smith has definitely decided to make the race. He is well known in the city and holds a responsible position in the Portsmouth Works, Wheeling Steel Corporation.

"I am for Johnson first, but if Coolidge is nominated I will support him," Mr. Streich said Monday. "Mr. Hincheliffe and Rev. Warnock called on me Sunday in an effort to have me announce my candidacy, but I told them I would wait until Monday. He was expected to confer with the Johnson boosters late this afternoon."

Child Falls Into Bath-Tub Filled With Scalding Water; Death Ensues

Burns suffered Friday night by John B. Graham, two-year-old son and oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Graham of Star Yards, near Sciotoville, resulted in death Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock at the home.

Friday evening about seven o'clock a roomer at the Graham home had prepared a tub of water in which to take a bath, and before he could put in cold water, the child fell into the tub and was severely scalded from head to foot.

The child was quickly removed from the water and its clothes were torn off, but the scalding water had soaked through and burned the tender skin deeply, causing the child to suffer terrible pain. Dr. T. H. McCann of New Boston was called and he at once announced that the child had but little chance, as the burns were so severe for one of that age. Scalding applications were put on and an effort made to relieve the pain as much as possible. The child's pains were so terrible at times that he needed the attention of a physician to prevent convulsions.

Besides the parents, a younger sister survives. The father is employed at the steel plant.

Child Falls Into Bath-Tub Filled With Scalding Water; Death Ensues

Burns suffered Friday night by John B. Graham, two-year-old son and oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Graham of Star Yards, near Sciotoville, resulted in death Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock at the home.

Friday evening about seven o'clock a roomer at the Graham home had prepared a tub of water in which to take a bath, and before he could put in cold water, the child fell into the tub and was severely scalded from head to foot.

The child was quickly removed from the water and its clothes were torn off, but the scalding water had soaked through and burned the tender skin deeply, causing the child to suffer terrible pain. Dr. T. H. McCann of New Boston was called and he at once announced that the child had but little chance, as the burns were so severe for one of that age. Scalding applications were put on and an effort made to relieve the pain as much as possible. The child's pains were so terrible at times that he needed the attention of a physician to prevent convulsions.

Besides the parents, a younger sister survives. The father is employed at the steel plant.

Petroleum Group Active

NEW YORK, N. Y., February 18.—The petroleum group demanded most attention in the trading on the curb market today, many of those issues fluctuating over a wide range and some maintaining their strong tone in the afternoon. The market was under pressure. There was a continuation of the violent advance in Chesborough which moved up 20 points to a new high on sales of less than fifty shares. Chesborough advanced in the quarters that the basis of the movement must be anticipation of a splitting up of the stock at low par value of 60 cents. There was a steady tone to shares. At the present time there are only 15,000 shares of common and 10,000 shares of preferred outstanding of this company. Swan and Finch had another wide movement, advancing 10 points. The Chesapeake and Potomac Electric and Gas, after making a gain of 3 points, dropped sharply, and Magnolia Petroleum was offered down five points in the first half of the day. The Chesapeake and Ohio were among the strong features. Cumberland Pipe Line moved a fractional gain. The low priced issues, including Seaboard Oil and Gas and Latin-American Oil, Mutual Oil was steady. Gulf Oil was a weak feature in the independent group, falling over one point. The Baking "B" was a strong feature and gains were made in Kresge and Gillette Safety razor. Dubilier after showing a fractional gain in the early trading yielded about one point. Glen Alden Coal made a fractional gain.

A CRITERION FOR CANDIDATES

THE average citizen is perplexed by the long array of candidates who offer themselves for public office. By the very nature of things he cannot know all of them personally, and his opportunities for first hand information are often meager. Thus puzzled, the voter who desires to see worthy men in office feels the need of some kind of a standard by which to measure and appraise the plentiful crop of candidates produced by every election. What tokens of fitness for public office should guide the voter? Precisely the same qualities required by business concerns for the extension of commercial credit. They are at least four in number and as follows:

Character. This is fundamental. If a candidate is known to be tricky, dishonest, unreliable, such knowledge is enough to debar him from the support of every decent voter. Even a suspicion of unreliability is sufficient to warrant a close scrutiny of the man's record. Perfection is not expected in anybody, not even consistency, but integrity is essential. A weak and wavering occupant of an important office is a sorry commentary on a democracy.

Capacity. No private concern will knowingly employ a man for an important position simply because he tells the truth, pays his bills, and goes to church twice on Sunday. He must have ability to boot. Brains are at a premium. Thinkers are scarcer than talkers always. To nominate and elect a numbskull or incompetent person to public office for any reason is lamentable and inexcusable.

Experience. The more important the office, the more necessary the asset of experience on the part of the candidate. When a man has been in office for a number of years, the public has an opportunity to take his full measure. What is his record? What has he done? What did he leave undone? What has he stood for? Who were his associates? All of these points count.

Stamina. This is the power to endure to the end. "Backbone" is an old-fashioned name for it, "entrails" is a newer and a more expressive word. Almost anybody can make a good start. The last lap of the race is the acid test. Ability to finish well is rare. George Eliot's Adam Bede admired Moses because he took a hard job and saw it through. Able officials with "staying" qualities are desirable public servants. Given these traits—Character, Capacity, Experience and the possessor thereof ought to make a good mayor, judge, ball player, anything. But don't vote for the fellow who himself tells you he has all these graces. By that very token he hasn't.

WARNING A PRESIDENT

IN the United States they are known under the appellation of elections, but in Honduras as well as in some others of the Latin-American republics they more resemble revolutions or civil wars. Such a fiery election is taking place in Honduras at this time for the quite sufficient reason that three politicians want to become president and none of the trinity can muster up the required majority.

It is the prerogative of the Latin-American office seeker if he is defeated for election by the people he may elect himself by a little bloodshed and fireworks.

When it became apparent that complications would set in, the United States sent a warship with a message to the effect that the Honduran Congress would either elect a president in accordance with advanced theories of law and order or the United States would sever diplomatic relations.

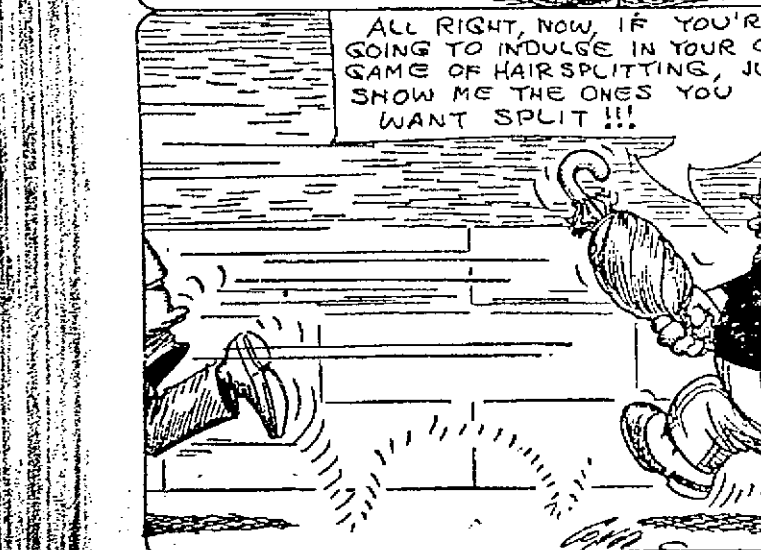

The threat, curiously enough, had no appreciable effect. General Carias, one of the candidates, has taken the familiar road to the Nicaraguan border, where a supply of revolutionist raw material is always on tap. In the meantime, the term of the incumbent, Rafael Lopez Gutierrez, has expired; therefore Don Rafael Lopez is nothing more nor less than a tyrant.

The situation is, if possible, more complicated, from the Washington viewpoint, than was that in Mexico. Withdrawal of the American minister from Tegucigalpa will settle nothing. There is no faction in Honduras to which the United States, with any show of consistency, could lend its moral support.

Mr. Sinclair, of oil fame, has arrived from Europe. "Called home by business."

EVERETT TRUE BY CONDO

NO, SIR, MR. TRUE, YOU'RE MISTAKEN! IT'S NOT THE SAME PROPOSITION AT ALL! WHERE YOU FAIL TO GET THE REAL ANGLE IS IN THE PROPOSITION THAT IF, AS IN THIS CASE, WE HAD SAID:

At least Mr. McAdoo deserves credit for having left the cabinet to recoup his finances.

The Obregonistas and Huertistas are demonstrating that Mexico is big enough for all to dodge a fight.

The Tea Pot Dome differs from the enterprise conducted by Doc Cook in that it has oil.

One sign of spring is when a neighbor brings back our coal scuttle and borrows our lawn mower.

Grand Duke Cyril says he is willing to return to Russia and become czar should the bolsheviks be overthrown. He is a humorist.

That was a poor final idea that occurred to the English novelist who committed suicide because she had run out of ideas for new stories.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTIRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up and wrote a triquet and so silly it was that my wife laughed and I in a pet and so to my publisher to talk about the new volume of mine he is bringing out in the spring.

Then to see W. R. Sheehan and watched the filming of some scenes and he sent me through the town in a big gasoline wagon and I looked with amused tolerance at those who were about, feeling very grand watching the petty rivalries of the peasantry.

Put in at Times Square and for a talk with Virgil McKitt about his new magazine, McNaught's Monthly, which is sprightly, and Rube Goldberg, the limner, came in and so to his office and I talked as he worked until he cried: "For Heaven sake, get out of here!" and I left the zany.

In the evening with Frazier Hunt and our wives to see Maurice and Miss Hughes dance and saw there Frank Case, Elsie Janis and her mother, Richard Barthelmess and some others. So to bed.

A man who called at the office of a man in Forty-Third street found a sign on the door reading: "Will be back in 15 minutes." He waited a half hour. Came back in an hour and waited fifteen minutes and then wrote under the sign: "What for?"

The plous attitude of theatrical managers against ticket-speculating is amusing to those who know how managers deal habitually with the "specs." It is all a tribute to the Broadway axiom: "Never give a sucker an even break." Speculators are always present when a show is being tried on the dog-in-a-bag Atlantic City or Stamford. They return and bid for choice seats. "Buys" by speculators are recorded in the theatrical trade papers. What is known as "a buy" is a bit and that means speculators have the choice seats.

Valentine Verses For Naomi
(By S. Virginia Lewis)
When o'er the fields of Paradise
Eve bent her gaze benign,
Methinks, my dear Naomi, 'twas
Through just such eyes as thine.

If earth seems mainly pure—a place
Where grace and virtue combine,
'Tis but reflected innocence
From thine own lunar shrine.

Thou sheddest sweetness like some rare
Though modest, fragile flower,
And so many only gentler winds
And mild skies be thy dower.

You Bet She Will
(By S. Virginia Lewis)
"Do angels have wings, Mummy?"
"Yes, darling."
"Can they fly?"
"Yes, dear."
"Then when is Nurse going to fly, 'cause Daddy called her an angel last night?"
"Tomorrow, Darling."—Tit-Bits (London).

Tree-memous Questions
(By S. Virginia Lewis)
Why the trees should choose to be Bare in winter, I can't see;
And where are all the leaves that fell?
Packed in tree trunks Can you tell?

I'd like to hear the trees say, too,
But do you s'pose they r... do?

Good gracious, Smith! What has made your face and head so frightfully swelled up?"

"A newspaper article."

"I don't understand."

"My wife happened to read a few months ago that bee-keeping was a light and profitable occupation for a man with some leisure and a good-sized backyard."

The Orphan Scandal

BY BERTON BRALEY

THERE was a little scandal and its name was "Teapot Dome." It came to Mr. Fall's house and it made itself at home. And after it stayed awhile it grew and grew and grew. And just how big it meant to grow nobody never knew; "Go away from where, you scandal," were the words of Mr. Fall, "You're some one else's scandal, and you ain't my kin at all!" But the scandal called him "Daddy," and it lingered round about. And the Tea Pot Dome'll git yuh, ef yuh don't watch out.

THEN it came to Mr. Denby, an' it said, "I've come to stay." But Mr. Denby answered it with "Beat it, go away!" Though I say you ain't a scandal, still I'm givin' you the rous, For I do not care to have you runnin' round about the house!" So that orphan scandal wandered and it kept on growin' and growin' and it tried to chum relationship with Mr. McAdoo: An' he drove it from his doorstep with a loud an' angry shout, But Tea Pot Dome'll git him ef he don't watch out!

WELL, by an' by, than scandal was stupendous to see, It made a lot of trouble for the well-known G. O. P. The Dimmycrats was happy, till the scandal, with a smile, Began to make advances for to stay with them awhile. Then they mattered and they grum- bled for to find that scandal there, For a monstrous orphan scandal isn't welcome anywhere: So the politicians tremble, bein' scared beyond a doubt, For the Tea Pot Dome'll git 'em ef they don't watch out!
